Figurative Language (cont.)

Metaphors

A metaphor is an indirect comparison between two unrelated things, indicating a likeness that exists in one special way. A metaphor does not use like or as to make its comparison. A metaphor states one thing acts like or appears to be another.

Example: Justin is a pig at the table. (simile: Justin eats like a pig.)

Use the following to create metaphors. You may add more than one word.

1. The child's wagon is _____

2. The kitten is _____

3. The computer is _____

4. The classroom is _____

5. The students are _____

6. The swirling sand is _____

7. The flood waters are _____

8. The full moon on the silent beach is _____

9. The cries of the gulls are _____

10. The soccer game is _____

Create metaphors of your own to describe the following:

11. your neighborhood

_____

12. a rattlesnake

_____

13. your best friend

_____

14. sky at dawn

_____

15. a motorcycle

Assessment: Revise and Edit a Paragraph

To revise and edit the paragraph, do the following:

- ◆ Put the topic sentence, supporting details, and conclusion in order.
- ◆ Use transition words.
- ◆ Add and remove details.
- ◆ Vary sentence structure.
- ◆ Correct fragments and run-on sentences.
- ◆ Improve word choice.
- ◆ Use figurative language.

Work on the paragraph on this page, and then write your final copy on the next page.

My Terrible, Horrible, Awful Day

The next thing I knew, I was on the floor beside the bed. My mother changed the sheets on my bed yesterday. I had to leave without it. When I went downstairs to the kitchen to eat breakfast. It was obvious that this day was not going to go well. I discovered there was no cereal there was no milk. I searched and searched and could not find my school backpack. I did find some stale rolls left over from the day before. The day was bad from the very beginning. They are blue with clouds on them. After such a beginning. As I woke up, I rolled over in bed. It was time to head for school. As soon as I was ready to get dressed. I went to my closet. My favorite shirt was not there. I could not even have toast. There wasn't any bread. I ate two of the rolls. It was getting late. It would be impossible for me to function at school without my backpack.
